PRESS CRITICISM

President of Southern Railway Urges That There Be Co-Operation.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 25 .- At the meeting of the North Carolina Press Association in Asheville yesterday Presiient Finley of the Southern Railway Company delivered an audress on "The Relations of the Press and the Railways and the Value of Their Co-operation in Community Development.

Mr. Finley pointed out the natural basis for co-operation between the press and the railways growing out of the substantial identity of their interests in community development and prosperity bringing to the ne spapers additiona railways increased traffic and making it logical ... at the press and the railways, in close co-operation for community development. He recognized that, while the newspapers and the railways were thus natural allies in community development, it did not follow that there should not be fair criticism of the railways, and said:

Advocates Fair Criticism.

"Fair and just criticism is a proper function of a free press, but criticism of the agencies which provide the transportation facilities of the community should take account of the economic conditions under which those agencies must work and should aim, in respect to must work and should aim, in respect to a factor so essential to community development, to be he.pful and educational rather than being along lines tending to create unreasoning prejudice."

Referring to the fact that a railway cannot win the support of public opinion through the exercise of political influence or in any other way except by the intelligent and effective performance of its functions as a carrier and by its its functions as a carrier and by its responsiveness to fair criticism, Mr. Finley pointed out that its position can only be secure when the economic conditions surrounding its operation and the importance of its functions to development and to the enlargement of opportunity are appreciated by the people of the community, and that this appreciation was dependent upon enlightened citizenship.

Creator of Values. As, in an economic sense, production position for consumption, Mr. Finley spoke of the railways as creators of value and as an indispensable part of the producing equipment of every com munity and of every farmer and manufacturer in it, and said that unjust criticism directed against farmers and manufacturers would be just as logical as against the railways.

Suggesting methods in which the press munity, not exaggerating or overstating advantages and opportunities, for the truth about the southeast was good enough. He suggested that newspaper men acting as correspondents of papers published in other localities should em-brace every proper opportunity to in-corporate in their news letter and dispatches matter that would serve to attract favorable attention to their com-

INVOLUNTARY BANKRUPT Creditors Carry Tangled Affairs of F. M. Smith Into

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25 .- The tangled affairs of F. M. Smith, the "borax king" and head of a two-hundred-million-dollar string of corporations, were day, when four creditors of the financier, with claims amounting to $155,000, filed a petition in the United States district

The petition declares that prior to May when a committee was appointed to act as trustees in managing Smith's affairs, he conveyed without money consideration properties valued at $1,000,000 to the Mercantile Trust Company, to B. F. Edwards and to his wife at a time when he was insolvent. These transfers, it is alleged in the complaint, constitute The committee of business men which has charge of the personal affairs of Mr. Smith said the petition in bankruptcy was entirely unexpected, because, when the committee took charge, it was the opinion of a majority of the creditors it would be able to accomplish more than would a receiver in bankruptcy.
